BUSINESSES POSITIVE ON 2Q PROSPECTS BUT REMAIN CAUTIOUS - DOSM

According to the Department of Statistics Malaysia's (DOSM) chief statistician Datuk Seri Dr Mohd Uzir Mahidin, businesses remain positive about their prospects for the second quarter of 2022 (2Q22) as well as for the six-month period to September 2022. Going into 2Q22, businesses are positive albeit at a slower pace, with a confidence indicator of +3.5% for the quarter against +7.6% in 1Q22. Despite the reopening of Malaysia's international borders, which is anticipated to spur economic activities, businesses stay cautious about their prospects amid inflation pressure, supply chain and labour shortage issues. Except for construction, all sectors surveyed anticipated better business conditions in 2Q22. The wholesale and retail trade sector is the most optimistic on its business outlook. The sector's confidence indicator has increased for three quarters in a row, with +15.5% in 2Q22 from +4% in the preceding quarter.

What Directors Need to Know

Based on the quarterly business tendency survey, brighter sentiment in both the wholesale trade sub-sector as well as the retail trade sub-sector led to this improvement. Meanwhile, the services sector predicted the business situation to improve at a moderate rate, posting a confidence indicator of +5.6% compared with +11.1% in 1Q22. As for the industry sector, it expects its business performance to grow at a slower pace in 2Q22 with an indicator of +0.8% compared with +12.2% in the preceding quarter. The agriculture and mining sub-sectors, in particular, anticipated unfavourable business conditions in 2Q22. Meanwhile, the construction sector remained pessimistic but its confidence indicator improved to -23.2% compared with -40.4% in 1Q22. He added that 45.2% of the survey respondents predicted that their gross revenue would rise in 2Q22, while 19% expect a reduction, leading to a net balance of +26.2%. The rest of the respondents (35.8%) anticipated gross revenue to stagnate. For the same quarter, 72.2% of the businesses expect their manpower to stay the same despite showing a net balance of +10.8%. Of the businesses, 19.3% intend to hire more manpower in 2Q22, while 8.5% have planned a reduction. On expectations of business performance for the upcoming six months (April to September 2022), businesses also remained optimistic about their outlook with a net balance of +25%, up slightly from the +18.9% recorded previously. This was attributed to better sentiments in the wholesale and retail trade, industry and services sectors.

BUSINESSES NEED TECH-ENABLED SHOPPING EXPERIENCES TO WOO MALAYSIAN CONSUMERS, SOME OF THE MOST DISCERNING IN THE WORLD - ADYEN

According to Priyanka Gargav, ADYEN's Head of Commercial, Southeast Asia & Hong Kong, despite challenges posed by the pandemic, the Malaysian retail industry proved its resilience in 2021, with 71% of Malaysian businesses across the retail, food and beverage, and hospitality sectors growing their revenue by 20%. Malaysian companies that outperform competition are those reaping the benefits of investing in digital transformation – an opportunity now worth MYR 334 billion.

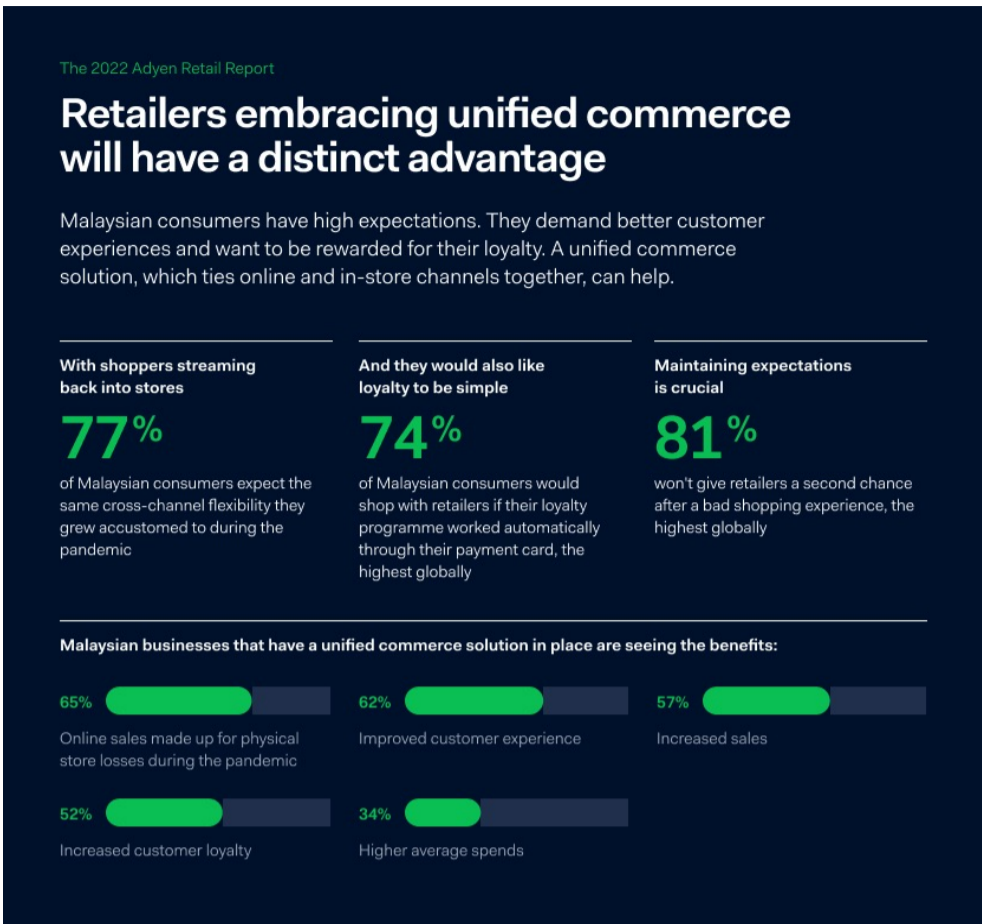

The Adyen Malaysia Retail Report 2022, commissioned by Adyen and sponsored by KPMG, interviewed over 40,000 consumers across 26 markets, including 1,000 from Malaysia, to understand how they feel about the state of retail. It also surveyed 11,500 businesses across 23 countries, including 500 from Malaysia, to learn about their concerns, aspirations, strategies, and investments for 2022 and beyond.

One key finding from the report was that over 1 in 4 businesses connected payment systems to other parts of the organization, such as inventory management and supply chain, to improve operations and break down silos in backend processes. As a result, 60% of businesses are now in a better position. This is 11% above the global average and the highest in APAC. Specifically, companies that connect payment systems with other sections of their business grow 18% more than those that do not. This shift has given Malaysian consumers a real taste for technology. 80% of consumers believe retailers used technology well to make their products available during the pandemic. The majority believe that retailers should deliver the same cross-channel flexibility they provided during the pandemic (77%) and use technology to improve loyalty/rewards schemes (90%). These figures are both 16% above the APAC average. Falling short of these expectations could spell trouble, as 81% of consumers will not shop with businesses that have a bad shopping experience, either online or in store, 11% above the global average.

Businesses intend on continuing to ride the digital wave, with 97% planning to invest in business improvement over the next year. The acceleration of digital transformation will contribute an additional 5.6% to the total growth of Malaysia’s retail sector over the next five years. Malaysian businesses have proven their resilience and adaptability during the pandemic, and their future is bright. Malaysian consumers' love for tech-enabled, seamless shopping experiences stands out on a global level and the time is ripe for retailers to capitalize on the MYR 334 billion opportunity in digital transformation. Many retail players have unlocked the promise of unified commerce as a strategic growth driver and its exciting to see the retail industry in Malaysia reach greater heights in 2022.

PHYSICAL STORES WILL STAY – BUT THE ROLE OF THE STORE IS CHANGING

More than any other market surveyed, Malaysian consumers believe online shopping is about convenience, but physical stores are for shopping for pleasure (76%). One way to meet their expectations is through melding online and offline realms to create new customer experiences. In fact, 87% of consumers are more likely to shop with retailers that use technology to enhance the customer experience, 32% above the global average. The report also uncovered an area for growth: 74% of consumers would be more loyal to retailers that enabled them to buy things online and return them in store, though only 30% offer this service. While Malaysia is ahead of the global and APAC averages in offering this functionality, there is room for improvement.

THE UNTAPPED POTENTIAL IN REAL TIME PAYMENTS DATA

In line with Malaysians’ preference for digitized shopping experiences, they are above the average in wanting more tailored and personalized interactions. 67% prefer retailers who remember preferences and previous shopping behaviors to create a more tailored shopping experience and 66% like personalized adverts or suggestions. This is 20% and 21% above the global average respectively. Fortunately,

Malaysian businesses are among the best at using data to inform decision making and engage customers. Currently, 39% of businesses use payments data to build a better picture of their customers, 12% above the global average.

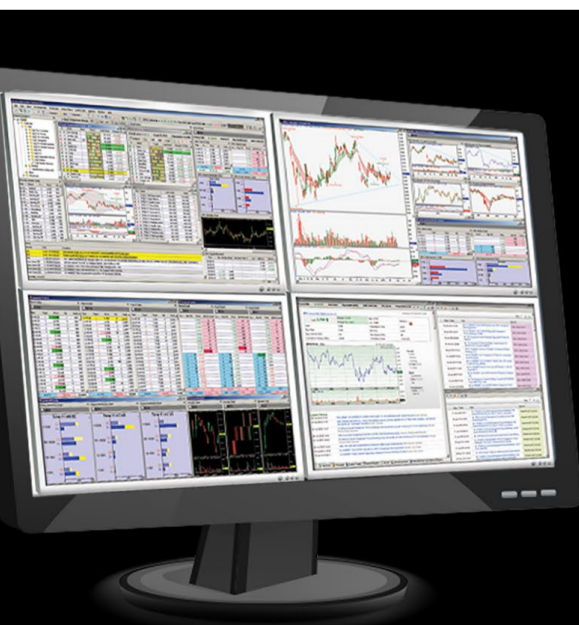

When doing so, businesses must prioritize safeguards to protect customer data and address consumer concerns around privacy. Half of Malaysian consumers will only allow their data to be stored and used by retailers if there are assurances around security and privacy, while almost half of them (45%) believe retailers shouldn’t be able to use their data/purchase behaviour information unless they give permission. With more businesses looking to embrace digitalization and Malaysian consumers’ preference for technology to permeate the in-store experience, businesses in 2022 are optimistic about the future. The impressive resilience and adaptability of Malaysia’s retail industry will likely be key themes even beyond the pandemic.

FLEXIBILITY TO SHIFT GEARS

Pankaj C Kumar

Pankaj is a former CIO and Head of Research, presently focused on economic, market and corporate analyses. The views expressed here are entirely the writer's own.

Inflation and growth expectations continue to hog the limelight as more data seems to suggest that inflation remains not only a threat to economic growth but has also resulted in several nations taking measures to secure domestic supplies for essential goods, choking the global supply chain even further. Nevertheless, there was still something to cheer on as minutes of the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) released this week saw investors welcoming the Fed's flexibility in future rate hikes despite the aggression in the coming two FOMC meetings where the Fed will raise benchmark rates by another 100bps in total.

Meanwhile, comments by the US President that he may consider clawing back some of the harsh tariff measures imposed on China during Trump's administration were welcome by markets but warning of slower economic growth may dampen the positive news, especially with respect to China's zero-tolerance towards new Covid-19 cases. Several economists lowered their full-year projections for China's GDP growth this year to between 3.0% and 4.2% from the previous estimate of between 4.2% and 5.1%. This is not surprising as Chinese Premier, Li Keqiang recognized that economic indicators have weakened considerably and to a certain extent are greater than when the epidemic hit China in early 2020.

ECONOMY

The S&P Global Flash Eurozone Composite Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) for May dipped to 54.9 from 55.8 in the preceding month while the S&P Global Flash Manufacturing PMI dropped to an 18-month low to 54.4 from 55.5 in April. Out of the US, Existing Home Sales for April fell by 5.9% y-o-y and 2.4% m-o-m to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.61mil. The monthly data was marginally below the consensus estimate of a 5.64mil annualized rate. It was the same for New Home Sales, as April data plunged 16.6% to just 591,000 annualized rate and well below the market forecast of 750,000. Meanwhile, the April Durable Goods Order came in slightly below expectations, rising by 0.4% m-o-m against the forecast of a 0.6% rise.

On rates, the People's Bank of China left the 1-year Loan Prime Rate (LPR) unchanged at 3.7% but slashed the 5-year LPR to 4.45% from 4.60% previously, which was more than the market's forecast of a 10bps reduction. In other news, Bank Indonesia (BI) left the key rates unchanged at 3.5% but brought forward the Reserve Requirement Ratio to 6% with effect from next month, 7.5% in July, and 9% by September. BI had initially planned to raise the rate to 6.5% by September. Out of the Philippines, the central bank finally moved to curb inflationary pressure by raising the benchmark rate from 2.00% to 2.25%. At the same time, the central bank also raised inflation expectations to 4.6% this year from 4.3% while the forecast for next year was raised to 3.9% from 3.6% previously. Not to be missed, the Royal Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) raised its Official Cash Rate (OCR) to 2.00% from 1.50% previously. RBNZ does not look to be done with raising interest rates, although it has raised the OCR by 175bps since October 2021, as the central bank expects rates to rise to at least 3.25% this year and peak at close to 4.00% in 2023. Bank of Korea too raised its 7-day repurchase rate by 25bps to 1.75%, making its fifth rate hike since August 2021.

Meanwhile, after less than a month, Indonesia has lifted the ban on palm oil exports with effect from May 23, 2022. However, Indonesia has also introduced several administrative procedures to ensure domestic supply is ensured. Down south, Singapore's headline inflation for April was sustained at 5.4%, the same as the March 2022 print, but the core inflation continues to escalate, this time rising to 3.3% y-o-y from the preceding month's rise of 2.9%.

Locally, Malaysia got a thumbs-up from the International Monetary Fund as the world body maintained its growth estimate at 5.75% for 2022, driven by both strong domestic demand and the robust external sector. Meanwhile, Malaysia's international reserves as at May 13 fell to US$111.4bil from US$112.5bil a drop of US$0.9bil. In Ringgit terms, reserves fell by another RM4.5bil to RM468.1bil from RM472.6bil. Malaysia also reported key inflation prints for April which saw headline and core inflation rising by 0.1% each to 2.3% and 2.2% from the preceding month's print of 2.2% and 2.1% respectively.

CORPORATE

M Rails Technics, a 70% owned subsidiary of Destini, won a RM531.4mil contract for the maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) of 35 trainsets operated by Keretapi Tanah Melayu for the next 4.5 years. In other news, KNM has reached an agreement with GPR Siebzigste Verwaltungsgesellschaft mbH for the proposal disposal of 100% equity interest in Borsig GmbH for €220.8mil or RM1.03bil. However, KNM will be recognizing a loss on disposal amounting to RM490.6mil.

EQUITY

Global markets were generally firmer as investors took the cue from the rebound on Wall Street after weeks of decline as well as the FOMC meeting minutes which suggest flexibility in the Fed's future rate hike increases. Markets that rose gained between 0.1% and 2.8% while markets that continue to see selling pressure fell by between 0.1% and 0.5%. Over on Bursa Malaysia, stocks closed mixed to lower as the KLCI fell by 8.26 pts or 0.5% to 1,541.15 pts as light selling pressure among plantation stocks dragged the benchmark index.

For the week ended May 25, retail market participants emerged as sole net buyers in the market with an inflow of RM123.2mil as both the foreign portfolio flows and local institutions were net sellers with an outflow of RM108.2mil and RM15.0mil respectively.

EYE ON WEEK AHEAD

Next week, on Tuesday, May 31, China will be releasing both the official Manufacturing and Non-Manufacturing PMI for May, with the market expecting a rebound in the reading from the preceding month's print of 47.4 and 41.9 respectively. On the same day, the Conference Board's US Consumer Confidence for May is due as well.

On Wednesday, June 1, the S&P Global Manufacturing PMI for Eurozone and Malaysia, the US Institute of Supply Management (ISM) Manufacturing PMI, and the JPMorgan Global Manufacturing PMI for May are due. The next day, the S&P Global ASEAN Manufacturing PMI for May will be released.

Locally, it will be a busy week for Corporate Malaysia as the last batch of quarterly results will be released by Tuesday, May 31. On the same day, the Department of Statistics will be releasing the Producer Price Index (PPI)-Local Production for April while Bank Negara will be releasing the Banking Statistics, Detailed Disclosure of International Reserves as at end-April and Monthly Statistical Bulletin for April as well.

INVESTING AMID HIGH INTEREST RATE, RISING INFLATION, DEPRECIATING RINGGIT

Devanesan

In what has been deemed as a surprise move, Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) had on 11 May raised the Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) by 25 basis point to 2.00% from a record low of 1.75% which has been in place since July 2020. Such move was in contrast with the forecast of many economists who had predicted an interest rate hike to only occur towards second half of 2022 although it has to be acknowledged that the earlier-than-expected rate increase might cushion the current ringgit weakness while reducing further capital outflows from the country. For now, it is fair to assume that this interest rate hike should not be taken as a signal of aggressive tightening although another round of rate hike could be in the pipeline towards end-2022. If it materialises, it will be by another 25bps, thus bringing the OPR to 2.25%. Nevertheless, it was intriguing that BNM would jump on the interest rate hike bandwagon this soon given that Malaysia's economic recovery remains relatively fragile while the country's average headline inflation remains within a manageable level (YTD: 2.2%). Economists believed that one of the underlying reasons of BNM's rate hike was due to the sharp depreciation of ringgit against the greenback (about 4.8% since the start of the year) as well as with other major and regional currencies. Besides, the strong selling pressure on ringgit is largely attributed to the rising market volatility mainly due to the US Federal Reserve's hawkish stance and the impact of China's zero COVID-19 policy.

RATE HIKES BY CENTRAL BANKS

Very broadly, major central banks globally have started – or at least hinted – to hike their benchmark interest rate to contain the inflationary pressure. On 4 May, the US Federal Reserve raised its benchmark interest rate by another 50 basis points (bps) to 75bps year-to-date – the biggest increase in more than two decades. The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) boosted the federal fund's rate to a range of 0.75% to 1% following its 25 basis point rate increase in March 2022 – its first hike since late 2018. The last time the Federal Reserve raised interest rates at back-to-back meetings was in 2006. In addition, the Bank of England sent a stark warning that Britain risks a double-whammy of a recession and inflation above 10% as it raised interest rates to highest level since 2009, hiking by quarter of a percentage point to 1%. In the same light, the European Central Bank (ECB) President Christine Lagarde has signalled that she would support a hike in the ECB's main interest rate in July 2022 to combat inflation. Closer to home, Malaysia is in the same boat with some other regional banks such as India, Australia and South Korea. This is despite some of its neighbouring countries still holding their key rate steady and keeping the rate low amid ongoing uncertainties on economic prospects. For instance, Bank Indonesia has kept the benchmark seven-day reverse repurchase rate at 3.50% last month to bolster the recovery. Additionally, the Thai Monetary Policy Committee shared a similar view by maintaining local interest rates to support economic growth.

MITIGATING INVESTMENT RISKS

Volatility prevails amid the current environment of high interest rate, rising inflation and depreciating ringgit. Rather than exiting the financial markets altogether, investors should accord ample precaution by insulating their portfolios from the adverse effect of market swings. Navigating through a volatile period entails mindfulness and self-discipline as well as building an aptitude towards diversification and rebalancing, notably by having investments spread across various asset classes that may include stocks, fixed deposits, bonds, unit trusts, or gold, among others. Even within equities, an investor may want to rotate into sectors that are deemed to be able to perform better in higher inflation condition such as energy or commodities. The banking sector is obviously a clear winner from an OPR upcycle as net interest margin (NIM) is expected to widen. Meanwhile, the sectors on the losing end comprise of real estate investment trusts (REIT) in view of narrowed spread between dividend yields and the 10-year Malaysian Government Securities, as well as property counters given higher OPR means increased mortgage instalments for house buyers. Elsewhere, a weak ringgit can act as a stimulus to Malaysian businesses as it enables Malaysian-made goods to become more affordable for foreign markets. Manufacturers and export-oriented businesses which market their goods to international markets may enjoy higher sales volume. More broadly, businesses with ringgit cost and US dollar earnings can also expect to benefit from ringgit's volatility.

While technology companies are expected to benefit from the depreciation of ringgit as their revenues are denominated in the greenback, investors are forewarned that tech companies could also be dependent on components which are priced in the US dollar. Henceforth, whether a particular tech firm will benefit from weak ringgit or otherwise will depend on whether earnings from the depreciation will outweigh the higher input costs. In the past, glove makers would often benefit from a weak ringgit as their products are often quoted in the US dollar but in recent times, it has to be borne in mind that prospect of higher earnings has been weighed down by a decline in average selling prices (ASPs) and steep competition (both locally and from China/Thailand). Domestic travel and tourism-related industry (notably hotels and airport operator such as Malaysia Airports Holdings Bhd) should benefit from weaker ringgit especially with Malaysia's re-opening of its international borders since 1 April. However, the same cannot be said of the airline industry (i.e., in the case of Capital A Bhd who operates budget carrier AirAsia) given its gain may be offset by escalating fuel cost which is quoted in the greenback. Likewise, the automotive industry may see a struggle if there is heavy reliance on imported components which will ultimately impact its overall cost of operation. Unless car manufacturers can pass down the higher cost vis-à-vis a price increase of their end product, the outlook for the industry is likely to be bleak. As it is, the Malaysian Automotive Association (MAA) expects vehicle prices to rise due to an increase in the price of raw materials which is further compounded by the weakening ringgit as well as the on-going chip supply shortage. For now, car manufacturers in Malaysia have yet to decide whether to increase prices or to continue absorbing the rising costs.

Refocusing and reviewing your investment portfolio is an important part of the successful investment process. For minority shareholders in the stock markets, it is time to relook at your holdings to see if they need weatherproofing and are defensive enough given the forthcoming headwinds, and vagaries of the capital market. 'Less is more' and this may also be an opportune moment to trim down the number of companies in which you may be invested in. It is easier to stay abreast of company level developments if we have a manageable number of companies in our portfolio.
