BURSA MALAYSIA, LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE TO ROLL OUT CENTRALISED SUSTAINABILITY REPORTING PLATFORM NEXT MONTH – PM ANWAR

P rime Minister Datuk Seri Anwar Ibrahim said Bursa Malaysia and the London Stock Exchange Group (LSEG) will be rolling out a Centralised Sustainability Reporting platform in April. The platform will enable companies, both public-listed companies as well as non-listed small and medium enterprises (SMEs), to calculate their carbon emissions impact. It will also help the companies to disclose standardised common environmental, social and governance (ESG) data in a way that conforms to established global standards. This platform has the potential to become a key enabler to Malaysia's pivot to green and support sustainable development while creating high-skilled jobs for progress towards a high-income nation.

The Prime Minister, in his keynote address at Invest Malaysia 2023 event organised by Bursa Malaysia and co-hosted by Maybank on Wednesday, said that Malaysia is not only open but also accelerates the transition and transformation of industries and local players towards ESG adoption, even for SMEs. For example, through the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI), consultation and engagement with local and international stakeholders are ongoing to develop the National ESG framework for the manufacturing sector by 2024.

He added that Malaysia is taking a leadership role in the low carbon journey, by bringing a platform to help companies measure, monitor, and drive reduction in carbon. With the growing need for companies to scale their businesses, he said the Securities Commission Malaysia (SC) together with Bursa Malaysia will introduce the LEAP Market Transfer Framework for companies to migrate from the LEAP Market to the ACE Market. At the same time, Bursa Malaysia will introduce a new Recognised Approved Adviser Framework that will expand the pool of advisers for the ACE Market.

He said that New Investment Policy is a forward-looking framework to ensure Malaysia remains ready to cater to changes in the global economy and to spur investment in future growth sectors. In many ways, it guides, facilitates and helps implement reforms to strengthen the fundamentals of the investment ecosystem. Being open to innovation in emerging opportunities, part of this is dealing with the review of Intellectual Property (IP) policies to address issues such as 'evergreening' or artificial extensions of market exclusivity that exist in certain sectors.

BNM KEEPS OPR UNCHANGED AT 2.75%

At its meeting on Thursday March 9, the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of Bank Negara Malaysia decided to maintain the Overnight

Policy Rate (OPR) at 2.75 percent. In a statement, BNM said that in the global economy, there were some positive developments with the reopening of China's economy and better-than-expected growth outturns in major economies, supported by resilient domestic demand. Nevertheless, the global economy continues to be weighed down by elevated cost pressures and higher interest rates.

Headline inflation moderated slightly from high levels in recent months, but core inflation remained above historical averages. Some central banks are expected to continue raising interest rates to manage inflationary pressures. This will continue to pose headwinds to the global growth outlook. The growth outlook remains subject to downside risks, mainly from an escalation of geopolitical tensions, higher-than-anticipated inflation outturns, and a sharp tightening in financial market conditions.

The Malaysian economy expanded strongly by 8.7% in 2022 driven by the recovery in private and public sector spending following the full reopening of the economy. After the strong performance in 2022, the economy is expected to moderate in 2023 amid a slower global economy. Growth will remain driven by domestic demand. Household spending will be underpinned by sustained improvements in employment and income prospects. Tourist arrivals are expected to continue rising, further lifting tourism-related activities. The continued progress of multi-year infrastructure projects will support investment activity. The implementation of projects from the recently re-tabled Budget 2023 would provide upside risks to the domestic growth outlook. Downside risks continue to stem mainly from global developments, including from weaker-than-expected growth outturns or much tighter and more volatile global financial conditions.

Headline and core inflation are expected to moderate over the course of 2023, but will continue to be elevated amid lingering demand and cost factors. The extent of upward pressures to inflation will remain partly contained by existing price controls and fuel subsidies, and the remaining spare capacity in the economy. The balance of risk to the inflation outlook is tilted to the upside and continues to be highly subject to any changes to domestic policy on subsidies and price controls, as well as global commodity price developments.

At the current OPR level, the stance of monetary policy remains accommodative and supportive of economic growth. The MPC will continue to assess the impact of the cumulative OPR adjustments, given the lag effects of monetary policy on the economy. The MPC remains vigilant to cost factors, including those arising from financial market developments, that could affect the inflation outlook. Further normalisation to the degree of monetary policy accommodation would be informed by the evolving conditions and their implications to the domestic inflation and growth outlook. The MPC will continue to calibrate the monetary policy settings that balance the risks to domestic inflation and sustainable growth.

THE BEDROCK OF VALUE INVESTING

Devanesan
Evanson

Chief Executive Officer, Minority
Shareholders Watch Group

There have been many principles and practices in investing over the past decades. However, there is only one philosophy that can bring reliable and sustainable returns over a long period of time. It is value investing. Value investing is an investment philosophy first introduced by Benjamin Graham in 1934 and popularised by Warren Buffett, arguably Graham's most successful disciple.

Buffett's company, Berkshire Hathaway, has achieved a 19.8% compounded annual gain in market value for 58 years! There are other value investors with 20 to 40 years of successful records. Buffett attributes his investment success to Graham's value investing principles. In 'The Superinvestors of Graham and Doddsville', an article published in 1984, Buffett laid out the performances of a group of investors who have outperformed the S&P 500 stock index. They all have one thing in common: value investing. These value investors simply search for discrepancies between price and value of a business. And they buy when the price is at a significant discount to intrinsic value. That's all they do to beat the market.

Basically, the fundamental philosophy of value investing has three concepts:

1. A stock is a piece of ownership in a company.
2. The market is there to serve you, not to instruct you.
3. Always seek a wide margin of safety.

BUSINESS OWNERSHIP MINDSET

A stock is a piece of ownership in a company, not just a stock code or a piece of paper. Most people trade a stock like a piece of paper because it is easy to trade. However, a business does not change much in value on a daily or monthly basis but it takes years or decades. Over the long term, the stock price is determined by the intrinsic value of the underlying business. If the business does well, the stock will follow too.

Before you start investing, do your homework. Pick one business and study it from A to Z. Think like a business owner and ask: how does the business make money, how does it finance its operations, how does the management allocate capital, how does it compare to the competition and what are the characteristics of the industry. Never lose sight of the basic truth that a stock is a business. With this ownership mindset, you will approach investing in a different way than just buying for a quick profit.

In his recent 2022 letter to Berkshire Hathaway shareholders, Buffett wrote “We own publicly-traded stocks based on our expectations about their long-term business performance, not because we view them as vehicles for adroit purchases and sales. That point is crucial: Charlie and I are not stock-pickers; we are business-pickers.”

MR MARKET IS YOUR SERVANT, NOT YOUR MASTER

Value investors use market fluctuations to their advantage. The stock market exists to serve them, not to instruct them. In Chapter 8 of The Intelligent Investor (Buffett said this is by far the best book on investing ever written), Graham explains how investors should view market fluctuations using Mr Market analogy. He said that you should imagine market quotations as coming from a remarkably accommodating fellow named Mr Market who is your partner in a private business. Without fail, Mr Market appears daily and names a price at which he will either buy your interest or sell you his. The prices he offers are ultimately irrational and based on emotions. Every now and then, however, he will give you a chance to make a profit by buying low and selling high. But you must heed one warning: Mr Market is there to serve you, not to guide you.

In summary, Graham said “Basically, price fluctuations have only one significant meaning for the true investor. They provide him with an opportunity to buy wisely when prices fall sharply and to sell wisely when they advance a great deal. At other times, he will do better if he forgets about the stock market and pays attention to his dividend returns and to the operating results of his companies.”

BUILD IN A MARGIN OF SAFETY

The key to this concept is to know what a business is worth and pay a much lower price. For example, if a business is worth RM10 million, you buy it at RM5 million. You don't buy it at RM9.5 million. Investing is about predicting the future. And the future is unpredictable. Therefore, you need to build a margin of safety, so you don't lose much if you are wrong. The larger the margin, the more room for error. The idea is to protect investors from losing money. Remember Buffett's Rules No 1 and 2. That is the cornerstone of his investment success.

Investing is simple but also hard at the same time. These principles are simple to understand but not easy to execute. If you can master these three principles, coupled with patience and long-term thinking, you will be ahead of 99% of other investors.

As Buffett says, there will continue to be wide discrepancies between price and value in the stock market, and those who practice value investing will continue to prosper.
