Is there an investment opportunity in ISEEGO

SUMMARY

- Despite operating in a growing 5G market, Inseego Corp. (NASDAQ: INSG) has shown little revenue growth over the past decade. There were declining margins and no breakthrough products to drive sustainable performance.
- Among its listed competitors, Inseego ranked worst across key metrics like EBIT margin, return on capital, and free cash flow, casting doubt on its aim of being a market leader.

Disclaimer: This article is written for informational purposes only. It does not constitute a solicitation, offer, advice, counseling or recommendation to buy or sell. As such it is not intended to promote the purchase of shares in any way. As a reminder, any type of asset has a risk factor and needs to be evaluated from multiple perspectives. Therefore, any investment decision and the associated risk remains with the investor. The views expressed here are entirely the writer's own.

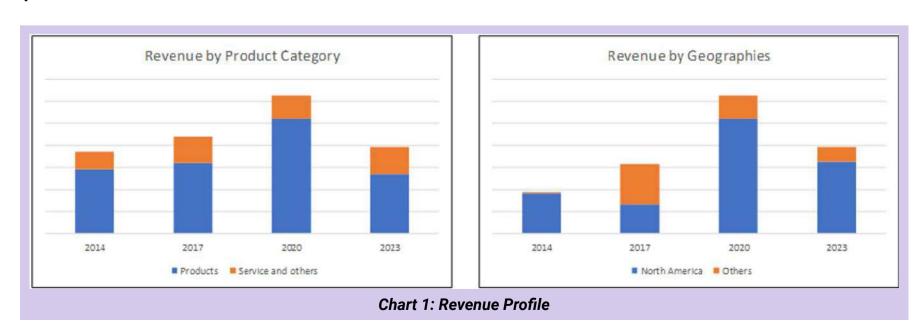

I also have concerns about its financial strengths. At the same time, a reverse-engineered market price implies aggressive assumptions that are unlikely, leaving little justification for a long-term investment.

BACKGROUND

Inseego's current corporate structure traces back to a 2016 internal restructuring of Novatel Wireless Inc. One objective of this restructuring was to facilitate the sale of its branded hotspots and USB modem product lines to a foreign buyer.

However, the proposed sale was ultimately aborted in 2017 due to prolonged delays and uncertainty in obtaining clearance from the US Committee on Foreign Investment. As a result, Inseego retained the "know-how and intellectual property essential to the development of advanced wireless technologies, such as the newly emerging 5G NR standard." In retrospect, this proved to be a fortunate outcome. Since 2018, the company has repositioned itself as a player in the 4G and 5G wireless markets.

Inseego's revenue is derived from two main segments: hardware and software services. Historically, the majority has come from product sales, as shown in the left section of Chart 1.

While Inseego's offerings are marketed globally, most of its revenue comes from North America, primarily the United States. Refer again to the right side of Chart 1.

The company aspires to become "a leader in high-performance 5G broadband solutions for mobile broadband and fixed wireless access applications for enterprise and SMBs."

This is a promising and expanding market:

"The global mobile broadband modem market size was valued at approximately USD21.5 billion in 2023... growing at a CAGR of 8.7% during the forecast period (2023 to 2032)." - Dataintelo.

"From 130 million at the end of 2023, fixed wireless access connections worldwide are projected to increase to 330 million by the end of 2029... Close to 85 percent are expected to be over 5G." -Ericsson.

Yet despite operating in a large and growing industry, Inseego holds only a small market share. This raises a fundamental question: Why has the company reported losses over the past 12 years?

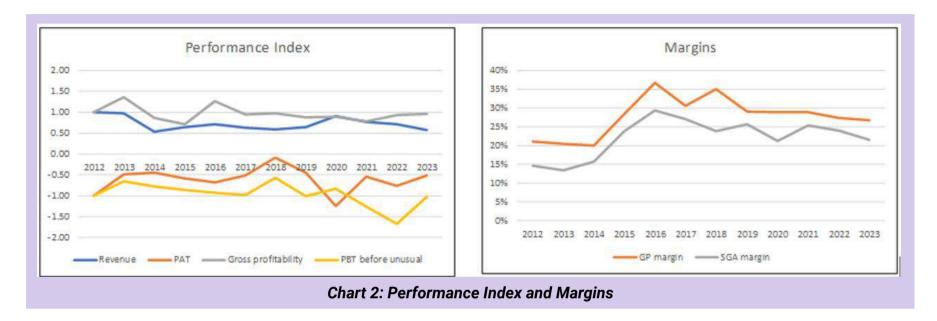

OPERATING PERFORMANCE

Over the past 12 years, Inseego's revenue has shown little to no sustained growth, apart from a temporary spike in 2020. As shown in the left section of Chart 2, this surge was linked to heightened demand during the COVID-19 pandemic, a trend the company attributed to pandemic-related control measures.

Given this context, the subsequent decline in revenue postpandemic is unsurprising. However, the end of COVID-19 restrictions was not the sole factor behind the downturn. In 2022, revenue declined following the divestiture of parts of its Enterprise SaaS Solutions business in Africa, Pakistan, and the Middle East.

The 2023 revenue contraction was, in the company's own words, "...primarily due to...lower sales of LTE gigabit hotspots as we transition from 4G products to 5G product offerings, partially offset by sales of 5G hotspots..."

These trends point to a deeper issue: despite owning patents, Inseego has not introduced a breakthrough product capable of driving consistent revenue growth. This, combined with a declining gross profit margin since 2018, as shown in the right section of Chart 2, helps explain the company's ongoing unprofitability.

To understand Inseego's business economics, I broke down its operating profit into fixed and variable components. The analysis shows that Inseego is operating below breakeven. To achieve profitability, it must:

- Grow revenue above breakeven, estimated at USD300 million based on 2023 cost structure.
- Improve contribution margin, which has declined since 2018. This is challenging due to reliance on contract manufacturers, leaving pricing and product mix as key levers.
- · Reduce fixed costs, particularly SG&A expenses, which account for about half of fixed costs. While R&D cuts may be limited for a tech firm, SG&A may offer room for adjustment.

In practice, a combination of these strategies will likely be needed.

PEER PERFORMANCE

A peer comparison showed that while most peers grew revenue from 2012 to 2023 (refer to Table 1), Inseego and Netgear saw revenue declines.

| Company | Revenue | | |
|--------------------------|-------------|--------------|--|
| | 2023 | 2012 to 2023 | |
| | USD m | CAGR % | |
| Inseego (INSG) | 197 | -4.9% | |
| Cisco (CSCO) | 56,998 2.0% | | |
| Franklin Wireless (FKWL) | 46 | 6.1% | |
| Netgear (NTGR) | 741 | -4.8% | |
| Nokia (NOK) | 24,573 | 1.7% | |
| ZTE (000063) | 17,506 2.4% | | |

Table 1: Peer Revenue

A comparison across four key metrics - return on capital, EBIT margin, levered free cash flow margin, and EPS - showed that Inseego had the weakest performance. This raises doubts about the effectiveness of its patents and suggests a lack of pricing power or competitive moat. Despite claiming to be "a leader" in cloud-managed WAN and edge solutions, the peer data does not support this positioning.

FINANCIAL POSITION

I have concerns about Inseego's financial position.

Over the past 12 years, there were only 2 years that it generated positive cash flow from operations.

· It had a debtcapital ratio of 126% as of Dec 2024.

| Item | Sources | Uses | |
|--------------------|---------|---------|--|
| | USD m | USD m | |
| Cash flow from Ops | | 172 | |
| New shares | 148 | 1000000 | |
| Net Debt | 189 | | |
| Acquisitions | | 56 | |
| CAPEX | | 130 | |
| Dividends | | 0 | |
| Buybacks | | 4 | |
| Misc | | -25 | |
| Total | 338 | 338 | |

Table 2: Sources and Uses of Funds 2012 to 2023.

 It had a poor capital allocation plan as shown in Table 2. Its negative cash flow from operations meant that the company had to raise new equity and debt to make up for the cash shortfall and to fund the CAPEX.

But there were some positive points:

- It had USD40 million in cash and short-term investments as of the end of June 2024. This was about 40% of its total assets.
- It has an average Reinvestment of USD12 million per year over the past decade. I defined Reinvestment = CAPEX & acquisition -Depreciation & amortization + increase in Net Working Capital. I suspect that this low amount was because it was outsourcing its manufacturing.

VALUATION

My analysis suggests that the company faces fundamental structural challenges, casting doubt on Inseego's ability to reach sustainable profitability. To achieve profitability, it must operate above its breakeven point. This would require a meaningful combination of revenue growth, margin improvement, and reduced fixed costs.

I attempted to reverse-engineer the market valuation of USD16.64 per share (as of 4 Nov 2024) to assess whether there might be an investment opportunity. Refer to the original article for details.

The implied assumptions behind this market price include:

- Revenue of USD301 million, growing perpetually at 4%.
- Contribution margin is 10% higher than the average over the past four years.
- Reinvestment margin improved to one-quarter of the past decade's average.
- Fixed costs held at 2023 levels.
- Zero tax rate.

While moderate improvements in margin and reinvestment efficiency may be plausible, I find the assumptions of significantly higher revenue and a zero-tax rate unrealistic. Given both the unfavourable business fundamentals and aggressive valuation assumptions, I see no compelling investment case for Inseego.

CONCLUSION

Inseego operates in a growing industry with promising long-term tailwinds, yet its track record tells a different story. Over the past decade, it had struggled with stagnant revenues, eroding margins, and consistent operating losses.

Despite holding relevant patents and aiming for leadership in 5G WAN and fixed wireless access, it has failed to gain meaningful market share or demonstrate a sustainable competitive edge.

Peer comparisons show that Inseego underperforms on all key metrics, and its weak financial position, marked by negative cash flows, high leverage, and an overreliance on external funding, raises further red flags. The road to profitability looks steep, and unless there is a clear strategic shift or breakthrough product, Inseego may continue to lag behind its peers. In addition to concerns about its fundamentals, the market price as of November 2024 appears difficult to justify, even under optimistic valuation assumptions.

I am a long-term value investor who has held onto stocks for more than 5 years. My analysis and valuation are from such a perspective. I consider quarterly results "noisy" and focus on long-term trends.

This article was re-purposed from my article "Inseego Will Have A Challenging Journey To Be Profitable" which was first published in Seeking Alpha. Refer to this link for more of my insights on other US companies.

MSCI Malaysia Small Cap Index review could result in RM146m selldown — CIMB

ccording to CIMB Securities' estimates, the MSCI Malaysia Small Cap Index's latest rebalancing could result in selldown of up to RM146 million in the six stocks to be removed, namely Sports Toto Bhd, UWC Bhd, Pentamaster Corp Bhd, British American Tobacco (Malaysia) Bhd, D&O Green Technologies Bhd, and Dayang Enterprise Holdings Bhd.

Based on CIMB Securities' analysis, the non-strategic foreign shareholdings in the stocks, including Sports Toto Bhd and UWC Bhd are between 4.7% and 17.7%. Together, the six counters account for about 4.4% of the index's free float-adjusted market capitalisation.

The broking house said that this development is negative for the excluded stocks, as it could trigger selling by passive funds that closely track the index.

The constituents of the MSCI Malaysia Index, which tracks largeand mid-cap stocks and represents 85% of the Malaysian stock market, will remain unchanged.

The indices are closely watched by fund managers and foreign investors. An exclusion from the indices can trigger outflows, as passive investors sell the former constituent in their portfolios to mirror the benchmarks.

All changes to the MSCI indices will be effective at the close of May 30, 2025. The next review has been scheduled for Aug 7, 2025. MSCI indices are rebalanced every three months on the final trading day of the quarter. MSCI will add or remove stocks based on specific criteria, such as size and liquidity, to ensure the indices stay relevant as the benchmarks of the markets they represent.

CIMB Securities noted that international funds could return to the Malaysian equity market, given the low foreign shareholding of 19.4% and improving market sentiment, following the deescalation of the US-China tariff trade war.

The sectors most likely to benefit from foreign inflows are financial services, utilities, and consumer, which have experienced the largest net foreign outflows year-to-date.

CIMB Securities' stock picks in the financial services sector are Public Bank Bhd, RHB Bank Bhd, and Alliance Bank Malaysia Bhd. The stock pick for utilities is Tenaga Nasional Bhd. In the consumer sector, it is 99 Speed Mart Retail Holdings Bhd and Farm Fresh Bhd.

MCBA signs MOUs with 20 Malaysian entities to explore Cambodian, overseas markets ccording to the Malaysia Cambodia Business Association (MCBA) president Datuk Seri Dr Ricky Yaw, the bilateral business association has signed memoranda of understanding (MOUs) with 20 Malaysian associations to explore overseas markets, beginning with Cambodia. The one-year renewable MOUs are expected to bring in at least 100 Malaysian companies from various sectors, such as fertilisers, engineering, electrical, and construction.

He added that these MOUs with 20 associations are part of a broader alliance – not just for Cambodia but is a start. This marks the launch of the first project. He also announced that the Malaysia-Cambodia Investment and Trade Mission 2025 will be held from June 26-29 in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

Speaking at the signing ceremony, he said that with the combined strength of these 20 associations — and potentially more in the future – this alliance will allow MCBA to move more effectively across borders. He noted that this powerful alliance marks a significant milestone in Malaysia's economic diplomacy, signifying a unified commitment to promoting cross-border trade, investment flow, innovation exchange, and people-to-people cooperation between Malaysia and Cambodia.

The strategic partnership is expected to become a transformative platform – empowering Malaysian businesses to explore overseas markets, while attracting foreign investments and collaborations back to Malaysia adding that it aims to catalyse bilateral and multilateral economic growth across various industries. The MCBA will act as a gateway to unlock regional opportunities, connect industries, and enhance Malaysia's economic footprint globally.

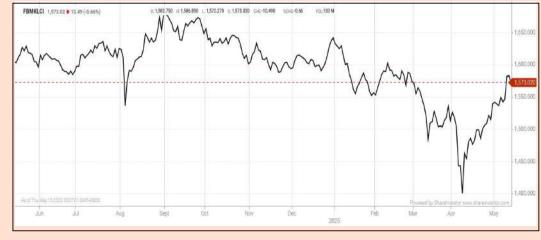

Cambodia offers a promising environment for investment and trade, particularly for SMEs. The entry barriers in Cambodia are relatively low - many certification and regulatory requirements are still evolving. For SMEs, cost is a major factor. If it's too expensive to enter a market, it becomes very difficult for them.

He added that in Cambodia, one can register a company with 100% foreign ownership without the need a local partner, and a business can be set up overnight which are key advantages for SMEs.

mid global uncertainties, Malaysian PLCs must address risks like market overdependence and changing trade policies. Clear investor communication and a focus on flexibility, dual-market readiness, and transparency will ensure successful navigation of this transition.

EN EMPIRES SHIFT: INVESTING POWER

The return of Donald Trump has reintroduced market volatility, but beneath the headlines lies a deeper structural shift: a global power transition. As Ray Dalio outlines, empires rise and fall in cycles spanning around 250 years. Today, the U.S. shows signs of latestage decline, while China ascends, reshaping global dynamics. As the saying goes, when elephants fight, it is the grass that suffers. For trade-reliant nations like Malaysia, this calls for strategic recalibration.

U.S. RETRENCHMENT: THE COSTS OF ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

The U.S. is retreating from global integration through tariffs, ESG rollbacks, and reshoring efforts. Aside from these broader shifts, tariffs remain the most immediate disruptor, and their impact is already visible.

In early 2025, the economy contracted by 0.3%, its first decline since 2022. A 41.3% import surge, as firms front-loaded ahead of tariffs, shaved nearly five percentage points off GDP, the worst trade drag since the 1940s. Consumer spending slowed to 1.8%.

This divergence between policy aims and economic outcomes signals deeper decoupling between the U.S. and emerging blocs like BRICS+1, with long-term implications for trade, regulation, and capital flows.

CHINA'S RISE: BUILDING NEW SYSTEMS, NOT COMPETING IN OLD ONES

Rather than contesting existing Western-led systems, China is building its own. China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) 2.0 now spans over 145 countries and focuses on digital infrastructure, Artificial Intelligence (AI), and green energy. Within BRICS+, China is driving parallel systems—from BRICS Pay to the New Development Bank, reducing reliance on U.S.-centric institutions like the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunication (SWIFT)2.

BRICS+ now represents 54.6% of the world's population and 42.2% of global gross domestic product (GDP), surpassing the G7's 28.4%. This signals not just a shift in size but in direction. China's strategy is one of gradual substitution, reshaping the rules of global finance and trade through multipolar frameworks.

MALAYSIA'S POSITION: BRIDGING A MULTIPOLAR WORLD

Malaysia is positioning itself as a strategic connector in this evolving order. In 2024, GDP grew by 5.1% (2023: 3.6%), led by services and manufacturing. Approved investments hit a record RM329.5 billion, with RM188.4 billion in Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). Foreign ownership of Malaysian Treasury Bills stood at 56.9% in early 2025, while the services sector now contributes over 60% of GDP.

Malaysia's GDP correlation with the U.S. is 70.9%, reflecting Western capital exposure. Yet its 20% correlation with China suggests room for deeper economic ties without excessive dependency. China's President, Xi Jinping's April 2025 visit saw the signing of 31 Memorandum of Understanding (MoU)s covering Al, green energy, halal certification, and logistics. These build on major BRI projects like the RM74 billion ECRL and the "Two Countries, Twin Parks" initiative. With BRICS+ partner status and over RM100 billion in BRI-linked investments, Malaysia is anchoring itself in a multipolar framework.

² A global messaging system used by banks to securely send payment instructions and transfer money across borders.

CORPORATE READINESS: STRATEGIC ALIGNMENT IS ESSENTIAL

Turning Malaysia's strategic positioning into real investor value depends on how public listed companies (PLCs) communicate and execute under geopolitical uncertainty. Key risks—such as overdependence on a single market or shifting trade policies—should be clearly disclosed. Where companies have signed MoUs or entered foreign partnerships, investors deserve updates on real progress.

Samaiden Group Berhad offers a timely example. In response to MSWG's questions during its 5th AGM last year about potential impacts from U.S. import duties on solar components from Southeast Asia, the Company clarified that it sources entirely from China and is not affected by the tariffs (see sidebar).

We also asked Samaiden about the impact of political leadership changes in the United States on its renewable energy strategy. The Group affirmed that its strategy remains anchored in domestic and regional expansion, driven by energy transition plans and policy commitments like Malaysia's 70% net-zero target.

POSITIONING FOR ADVANTAGE IN A MULTIPOLAR TRADE LANDSCAPE

As global trade fragments, Malaysian sectors with specialised capabilities are gaining ground. Semiconductors and electronics benefit from the China+1 shift, with Malaysia's backend strengths attracting firms looking to diversify.

Inari Amertron Berhad is expanding regionally via its China JV while maintaining key U.S. clients. Pentamaster Corporation Berhad delivers automation across Asia,

INVESTOR FOCUS: KEY AGM QUESTIONS IN SAMAIDEN 5TH AGM HELD IN 2024

MSWG's Question

Does the Group source their solar modules from countries affected by these duties? If so, how significant is this sourcing to the total procurement from international suppliers? Please specify the percentage for each country from which the Group sources the raw material.

Response

The solar panel and inverters purchased by the group are 100% imported directly from China, therefore, the imposition of preliminary duties to the goods to be imported from SEA countries will not exert any impact to the group.

MSWG's Question

What steps is the Group taking to manage potential increases in material costs due to these duties?

reducing single-market reliance. Vitrox Corporation Berhad supports global chipmakers seeking alternatives to China for precision inspection. Together, they show how local tech firms balance Eastern growth with Western risk management.

Outside tech, renewables are advancing through Malaysia's net-zero push and BRI-linked China partnerships. Digital infrastructure and smart manufacturing are rising on the Belt and Road momentum. Meanwhile, halal and palm exports are entering BRICS+ markets but face higher ESG and certification expectations.

Response

This preliminary duty will not create a material cost impact to the group.

MSWG's Question

How might the change in political landscape in the United States impact the Group projects and overall strategy? Are there specific concerns about potential regulatory changes or shifts in market dynamics that could affect the Group's operations and growth in the renewable energy sector?

Response

The change in political leadership in the US will not impact our group's overall strategy. Samaiden Group remains committed to strengthening its domestic business while continuing to expand its presence across Southeast Asia. The energy transition plans initiated by various nations serve as a key impetus driving growth in the renewable energy sector, including Malaysia's pledge to achieve a 70% net-zero goal. Several initiatives have already been rolled out both domestically and regionally, providing a strong catalyst for positive business growth.

When empires shift, markets move beyond short-term fluctuations and undergo structural transformation. Malaysia, situated at the crossroads, must remain agile. Companies that embrace flexibility, dual-market readiness, and governance transparency will navigate this transition best. For investors, this is a time not for fear but for strategic recalibration. The future will reward those prepared to engage both blocs, balancing resilience with opportunity. In this global reset, long-term value will be shaped by those who adapt early, execute boldly, and stay globally connected.
