Is Engtex an investment opportunity?

SUMMARY

- Engtex Group Berhad (5056.MY) is fundamentally a steel-based Group focused on wholesale, distribution, and manufacturing, with modest revenue growth over 12 years, roughly tracking Malaysia's GDP.

Disclaimer: This article is written for informational purposes only. It does not constitute a solicitation, offer, advice, counseling or recommendation to buy or sell. As such it is not intended to promote the purchase of shares in any way. As a reminder, any type of asset has a risk factor and needs to be evaluated from multiple perspectives. Therefore, any investment decision and the associated risk remains with the investor. The views expressed here are entirely the writer's own.

- Despite revenue growth, operating and capital efficiencies deteriorated, with ROIC and ROE averaging just 5% and 7%, both below the estimated cost of capital, implying no shareholder value creation.
- The company struggled to fund reinvestments purely from operations, showing weak cash flow conversion and periodic negative operating cash flows.
- Its Earnings Power Value (EPV) trails its Asset Value, indicating underused assets. Yet the market prices it above its EPV, possibly on hopes of a turnaround. This is despite little evidence of improved efficiency.

BACKGROUND

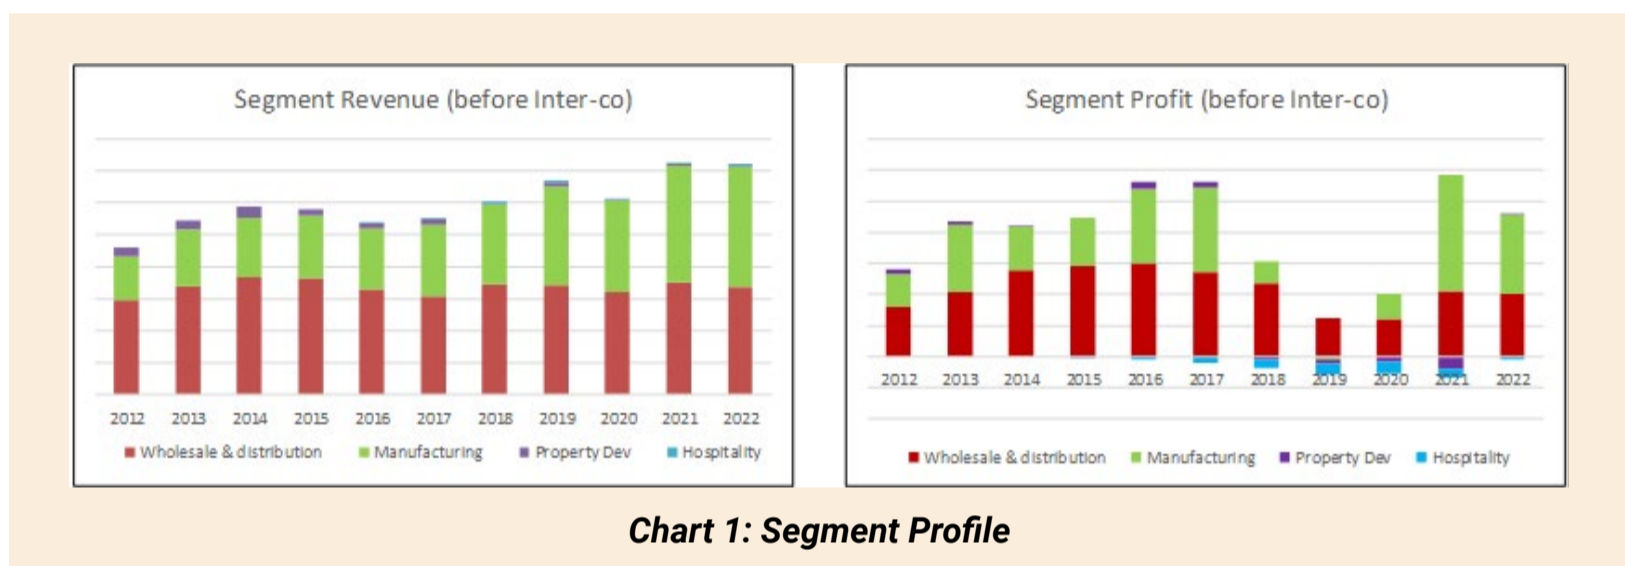

Engtex started in 1983 as a small hardware retailer, but over the years, it has grown into a diversified Group. The Group's main businesses revolve around being a one-stop solution provider for pipes, valves, fittings, plumbing, iron and steel products, and general construction materials. In 1995, Engtex expanded upstream into manufacturing ductile iron and mild steel pipes, valves, and other industrial castings, strengthening its control over quality and supply.

Today, Engtex's operations are structured into four segments:

- Wholesale & Distribution: Supplying pipes, valves, fittings, plumbing, and construction materials.
- Manufacturing: Producing steel and ductile iron pipes, valves, and related products.

- Property Development: Engaging in development and investment.
- Hospitality: Offering accommodation, F&B, and related services.

As shown in Chart 1, the Wholesale & Distribution and Manufacturing segments are the primary revenue and profit drivers, firmly anchoring Engtex within the steel sector.

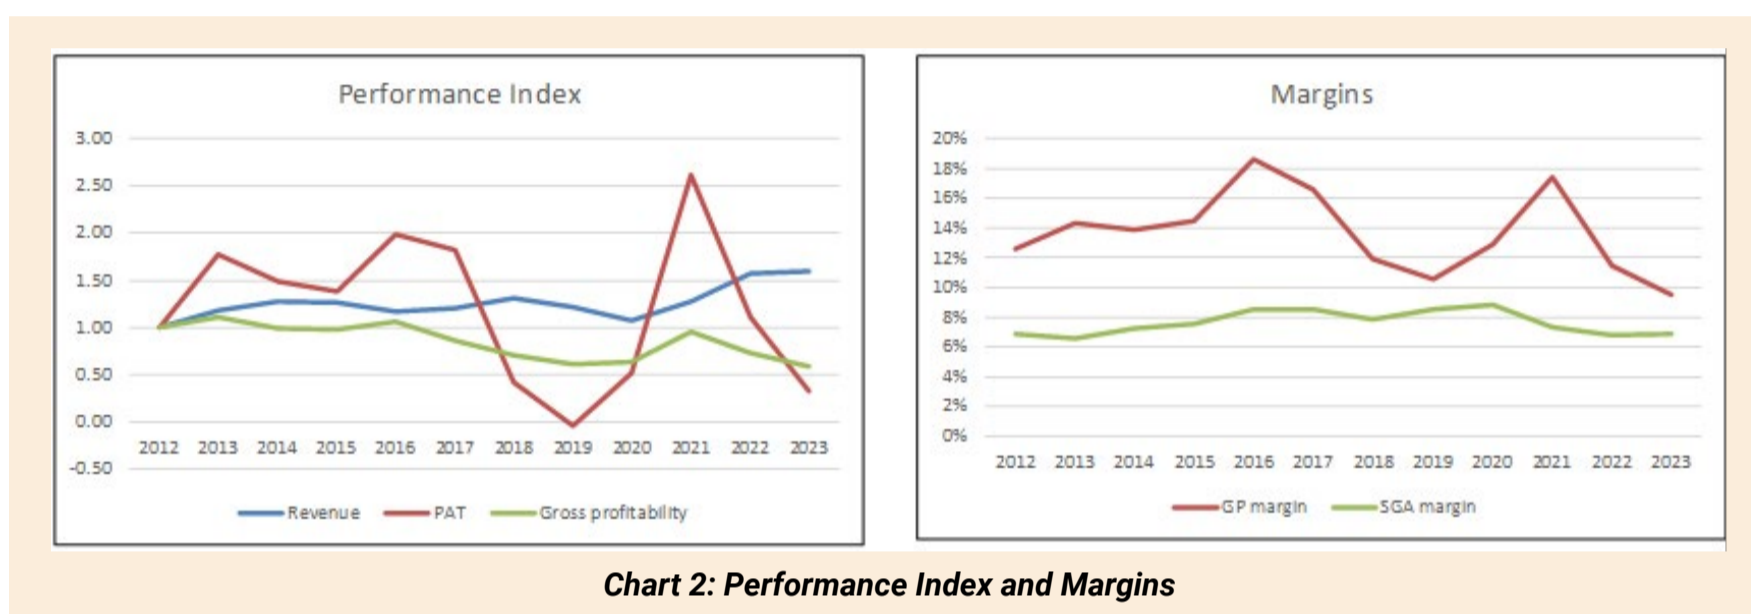

OPERATING PERFORMANCE

From 2012 to 2023, Engtex’s revenue grew steadily at a 4.3% CAGR. However, profits were far more volatile. Refer to the left part of Chart 2.

- The sharp drop in PAT in 2019 was largely due to “high procurement and operating costs across all segments,” with the Manufacturing division slipping into a loss.
- The profit surge in 2021 was driven by stronger demand and higher selling prices, tracking global and domestic metal price spikes.

Despite the revenue growth, operating and capital efficiencies deteriorated over the period.

- Operating efficiency: Key metrics – ROA, asset turnover, operating expense ratio - weakened from 2012 to 2023. The narrowing gap between gross profit margin and SGA margin (right of Chart 2) indicates rising operating pressures.
- Capital efficiency: Capital turnover declined, while the cash conversion cycle lengthened, pointing to weaker asset productivity.

Returns were similarly volatile and in decline. From 2012 to 2023, ROIC averaged 5% and ROE 7%, both below the current estimated cost of capital, implying Engtex did not create shareholder value over this period.

PEER COMPARISON

I compared Engtex's performance with several Bursa steel companies. As shown in Table 1, Engtex is among the smaller companies in the peer group. However, it achieved the best revenue growth over the past 12 years. Engtex was also among the top performers when it came to return on capital and EBIT margin.

Company	Revenue
	2023 RM m	2012 to 2023 CAGR
Engtex (ENGTEX)	1,470	4.4%
Ann Joo (ANNJOO)	2,508	1.6%
Choo Bee (CHOOBEE)	402	-1.0%
CSC Steel (CSCSTEL)	1,558	3.0%
Hiap Tech Venture (HIAPTEK)	1,585	3.2%
Malaysia Steel Works (MASTEEL)	2,012	4.0%
Southern Steel (SSTEEL)	2,386	-2.9%

Table 1: Peer revenue

*Please refer to the disclaimer on first page and last page.

FINANCIAL POSITION

I would rate Engtex's financial standing as below average, as its positive points were far outweighed by the negative ones. Its positive points were:

- As of the end of December 2024, it had RM138 million in cash, equal to about 9% of its total assets.
- Its Debt Equity ratio at the end of December 2024 was 70%, although down from its past decade high in 2015 of 102%.
- Over the past 12 years, it had an average Reinvestment rate (Reinvestment/NOPAT) of 42%. This seems to be an average rate. I defined Reinvestment = CAPEX & acquisitions – Depreciation & amortization + increase in Net Working Capital.

The negative points were as follows:

- Engtex's capital allocation track record has been poor. Refer to Table 2. The cash flow from operations was not sufficient to fund its CAPEX and acquisitions.

Item	Sources RM m	Uses RM m
Cash flow from Ops	368
New shares	144
Net Debt	297
Acquisition		14
CAPEX		469
Dividends		38
Buybacks		10
Misc		277
Total	808	808

Table 2: Sources and Uses of Funds 2012 to 2023

In the context of cash generation, it did not do well:

- Over the past 12 years, there were 4 years with negative cash flow from operations.

- Over the past 12 years, it generated RM368 million cash flow from operations compared to its PAT of RM445 million. This is a poor cash flow conversion ratio.

VALUATION

My analysis showed that Engtex is essentially a steel-based business. Over the past 12 years, it has demonstrated revenue growth roughly in line with Malaysia's GDP, highlighting that it is not a high-growth company. More concerning is the trend in returns, which have been both volatile and on a downward trajectory, reflecting the lack of improvement in operating and capital efficiencies.

Despite these challenges, Engtex stands out as one of the better performers relative to its peers in the industry. However, given its sensitivity to commodity cycles and historical inability to lift efficiencies, the Group's long-term value creation remains constrained.

I looked at several valuation metrics to assess whether there is a margin of safety. Refer to Table 3. You can see that there are only margins of safety under the Asset Value.

Because of the low revenue growth, it is better to estimate the Earnings value based on the Earnings Power Value (EPV). You can see that the EPV is significantly lower than the Asset Value. Refer to the original article for details of the valuation.

Metric	Units	Valuation
Asset value	RM per share	1.83
Intrinsic value : EPV	RM per share	0.40
Acquirer's multiple (a)	Number	9.82
Free cash flow yield (b)	%	7%
Market price 30 Dec 2024	RM per share	0.62

Table 3: Valuation metrics

Notes to Table 3:

- a) EV / EBITDA. A ratio less than 6 is considered cheap.
- b) Free cash flow/market price.

According to Professor Bruce Greenwald, this valuation discrepancy suggests the underutilization of the assets.

You should not be surprised, as we have declining returns and the Group did not create shareholder value.

Interestingly, the market is valuing Engtex above its EPV, possibly anticipating a significant turnaround. However, past profit spikes were mainly driven by cyclical steel price upswings, which inevitably reverse. Given that there is no evidence of improving operating or capital efficiencies, this optimism appears misplaced, suggesting the market may have overpriced the stock.

CONCLUSION

Viewed through a long-term value lens, Engtex presents a mixed picture. While it stands out among its steel peers for revenue growth and relative returns, its overall track record reveals volatile and declining profitability. There was also weakening capital and operating efficiencies, and subpar cash flow conversion. The company's Earnings Power Value is well below its Asset Value, pointing to underutilized assets and long periods of value erosion.

Despite this, the market appears to be pricing Engtex for a turnaround - an expectation that seems optimistic given its dependence on cyclical steel prices and the lack of evidence for structural improvements in efficiency.

I am a long-term value investor who has held onto stocks for more than 5 years. My analysis and valuation are from such a perspective. I consider quarterly results "noisy" and focus on long-term trends.

This article was derived from a detailed analysis, emphasizing the intersection of business performance and valuation metrics, which was first published on i4value as "Is Engtex an investment opportunity?" Refer to the article for further insights on its investment risk vs business performance.

Malaysia's 2025 projected GDP growth at 4.4% - MARC Ratings

A ccording to Malaysian Rating Corporation Bhd (MARC Ratings), the Malaysian economy is forecasted to grow by 4.4% in 2025, down from 5.1% in 2024, as external trade uncertainties dampen export momentum. However, domestic demand remains resilient, driven by labour market improvements, accommodative policy settings, and tourism recovery.

MARC Ratings noted that the global economic growth is expected to moderate in the second half of 2025 as trade tensions and geopolitical risks weigh on sentiment. The US's sweeping tariffs have reignited protectionist concerns, contributing to slower global growth.

Meanwhile, the US economy contracted by 0.2% in the first quarter of 2025, with the Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) for both manufacturing and services falling below the neutral 50 mark in May. Consumer sentiment also weakened, with the University of Michigan Consumer Sentiment Index dropping to 52.2 in May from 74.0 in December 2024.

US President Donald Trump had announced new tariff rates ranging from 20% to 40% on 14 countries, effective Aug 1, superseding the initially imposed tariff rates. MARC Ratings said for Malaysia, the US imposed tariffs of 25%, signalling the need for greater reciprocity in future negotiations. It noted that over time, US tariffs are anticipated to settle significantly higher than the long-term global average rate of 2.7%, potentially in the high teens.

It also noted that the US outlook remains uncertain, depending on the progress of disinflation, the Fed's policy stance, and clarity surrounding fiscal and trade policy directions. However, in contrast, the eurozone economy expanded by 1.5% in Q1 2025, benefiting from front-loaded trade activities during the US tariff pause. Key economies such as Germany also saw gains from increased defence spending and industrial policy shifts.

On China, MARC Ratings notes that it continues to face weak domestic demand and persistent deflation, with May's Consumer Price Index at -0.1%. However, a recent trade deal with the US, alongside ongoing stimulus and a gradual consumption rebound, may help China reach its "around 5%" growth target.

For Malaysia, the wholesale and retail trade index grew 4.8% YTD through April, up from 3.6% in the same period last year. Construction rose 14.2% in first-quarter 2025, while agriculture rebounded by 0.6%. However, lingering external uncertainties prompted Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) to cut the Overnight Policy Rate from 3% to 2.75%. BNM is expected to retain policy flexibility and respond accordingly to incoming data.

Malaysia's inflationary pressures remain contained, with headline inflation easing from 1.7% in January to 1.4% in April. The expanded Sales and Service Tax (SST), effective July 1, is expected to cause only mild price increases, as essential items remain exempt. Meanwhile, lower oil prices – Brent crude is projected to average US$70 per barrel – are expected to cushion inflation. As a result, MARC Ratings has revised its 2025 inflation forecast to 2.3% from 2.6% previously.

On bonds, MARC Ratings stated that the Malaysian Government Securities (MGS) experienced strong demand in 1H2025, supported by healthy fundamentals and dovish pivots by major central banks. Cumulative net foreign debt inflows reached RM26.9 billion between January and May, driving MGS yields 15–42 bps lower. These factors contributed to a 5.3% YTD appreciation of the ringgit as of mid-June.

MARC Ratings notes that these trends may moderate in the second half of 2025 amid ongoing external uncertainties. Nevertheless, structural reforms under the 13th Malaysia Plan, SST adjustments and anticipated Fed easing could help mitigate downside risks.

The 10-year MGS yield is expected to anchor around 3.50% and the ringgit to approach RM4.25:USD by year end.

Businesses still pessimistic about their three-month outlook in 2Q 2025 - RAM BCI

A ccording to a survey by RAM Holdings Berhad, the RAM Business Confidence Index (BCI) dropped further to 40.0 in 2Q 2025 (1Q 2025: 41.1). This marks the second consecutive quarter of negative sentiment on business prospects, which aligns with the rapidly escalating risks in global trade stemming from rising US protectionism policy. Three out of five sub-indices declined Q-o-Q, namely sales, capital investment and capacity utilisation.

Consistent with the overall cautious and subdued business outlook, rising cost of doing business remains the most pressing issue, with 80% of firms citing it as top concern. More competition and weak economic conditions also pose significant hurdles, with 63% of firms identifying them as key challenges. The share of firms citing supply chain issues also jumped 11 percentage-points to 40% in this survey.

A special focus for this quarter's survey, which was conducted from 29 May 2025 to 28 June 2025 polling 33 firms, was the impact of the US tariffs on Malaysian goods. Around two-thirds of firms surveyed anticipate a negative impact from these tariffs, of which a significant 27% of firms expect a major negative impact, with firms anticipating moderate and minor impact each at 18%. Sales and revenue topped the list of business aspects likely to be hit, followed by profit margins, supply chains and cash flow.

In response, firms are mainly adopting cost-related strategies to mitigate tariff impacts. About 42% are focusing on cutting operational expenses, while 39% are adjusting pricing strategies to remain competitive.

Businesses are calling for more assistance from the government, especially in terms of better access to financing and working capital. Grants and direct subsidies are equally in demand to help offset the challenges posed by trade tensions.

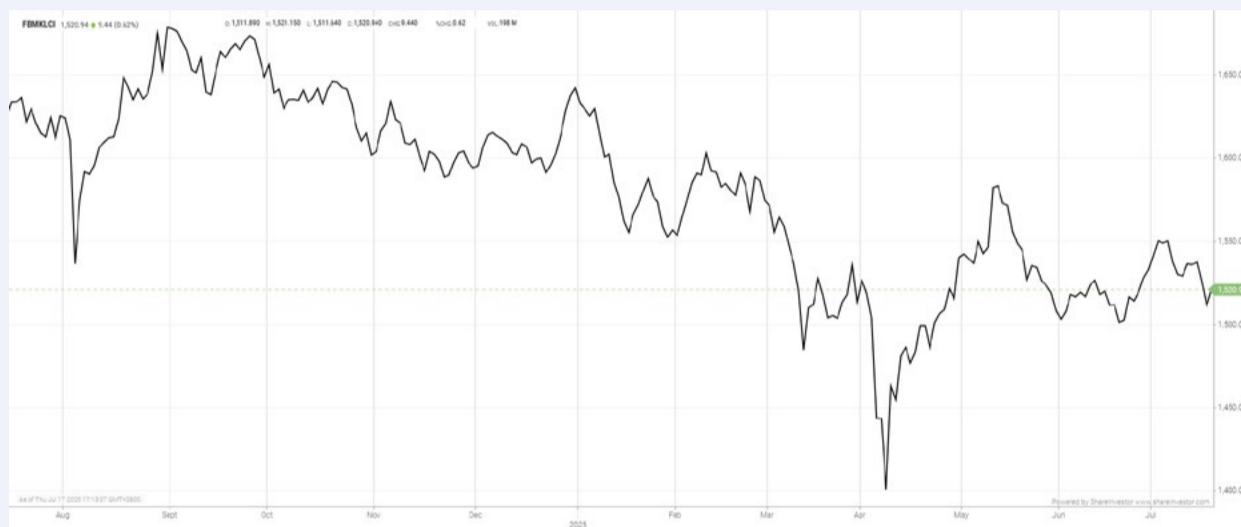

The latest RAM BCI survey highlights the growing pressures Malaysian businesses face from rising costs, intensified competition and external trade disruptions such as US tariffs.

RAM Holdings Berhad Group CEO and Executive Director Chris W.K. Lee said, "While businesses remain cautious, it is encouraging to see that companies are still investing and hiring. It is crucial that government and industry stakeholders work together to respond to the new challenges for businesses to survive and thrive."
