Bursa's trading activities expected to remain vibrant

According to RHB Research, Bursa Malaysia Bhd's trading activities are expected to remain vibrant this year due to sustained retail participation and sector rotation to cyclical sectors. The 2021 forecast securities average daily value (SADV) expectation of RM3.15bil assumes a 26% year-on-year (y-o-y) normalisation from the extraordinary 2020 but is still meaningfully higher than pre-Covid-19 trading levels and 30% higher than the 2017-2019 average SADV. Bursa had concluded the first trading week of 2021 with an SADV of RM5.36bil with total trading value at RM26.79bil. Due to this, the research house maintained its buy call on the stock with a target price of RM9.70 – an 18% potential upside and a circa 4% dividend yield. It's noted that trading activities for SADV and the derivatives average daily volume (DADV) were still robust in the fourth quarter of last year. The revised 2020 forecast earnings point to a 97% y-o-y net profit growth. Net profit in the fourth quarter should see +104% y-o-y growth but -24% quarter-on-quarter. It expects a 24-sen dividend per share for shareholders soon, which is based on a 90% pay-out. SADV and DADV is expected to stay elevated in 2021, albeit moderating from 2020, on still buoyant retail participation and sector rotation to cyclical sectors to sustain trading.

Robust ringgit set to boost stock market

According to Inter-Pacific Asset Management Sdn Bhd chief executive officer Datuk Dr Nazri Khan, the robust ringgit is set to impact the equity markets amid a weaker US dollar, as the FBM KLCI rose 30.24 points to end the first week of 2021 at 1,633.19. The ringgit was traded as high as 3.9957 versus the US dollar on the first trading day of the year and research firms believed the US dollar weakness would continue. 2021 would be a better year on the back of a formidable ringgit that would entice many foreign investors. Encouraging factors include a slew of support coming in the form of liquidity from Bank Negara with the reduction of interest rates, the implementation of Budget 2021 stimulus, retail investors, strong rebound in corporate earnings and the rise of global crude oil at US$55 per barrel. A general view of a contained Covid-19 in 2021 has also uplifted sentiment as news of Covid-19 vaccination is on the radar. The convincing ringgit's strength against a weaker US dollar would also contribute to spurring foreign investors in staging a resounding comeback to Malaysian shores in 2021.

Strong palm oil output recovery seen in second half

According to Maybank IB Research, a strong palm oil output recovery is expected in the second half of this year (H2) from good rainfall, the normalisation of fertiliser application and support from better prices. Palm oil supply was tight in 2020 due to biological tree stress. However, 2021 is anticipated to be a year of recovery for palm oil supply, especially in H2 on the back of the seasonality reason. Production is seasonally weakest in the first quarter and typically peaks in either the third or fourth quarter of the year. As seasonally higher H2 output becomes more apparent by mid-year, crude palm oil (CPO) prices will gradually come off as the present near price parity between CPO and US soybean oil, its key competing vegetable oil, is not sustainable when the palm oil and global vegetable oil supplies become ample again. Meanwhile, in the first quarter of this year, Maybank IB Research noted that CPO prices would start on a "high note" due to subdued brought-forward stockpile and a low production period. The price of CPO is expected to be lofty in the first quarter of this year on the back of short-term palm oil constraints in global supplies and uncertainties of the La Nina impact on South American crop. The ongoing weather concerns present an upside risk to its average selling price forecast of CPO of RM2,500 per tonne. Its forecast has yet to factor in any significant crop failure in the ongoing South American soybean planting season, crude oil price staging a massive rally and 2021's palm oil output coming in below-expectations. It is maintaining a positive call on the regional plantation sector as small and mid-cap stock prices have lagged the CPO price rally. In 2020, the CPO price made a V-shaped recovery to above RM3,000 per tonne after the price plunged to around RM2,000 per tonne in early May 2020 due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Stable glove demand seen post-pandemic but ASPs expected to ease by second half of 2021

According to AmBank Research, while demand for gloves will likely remain stable post-Covid-19, the average selling prices (ASPs) of the product are expected to ease in the second half of 2021. It expects the ASPs to decline by then, as there will no longer be a rush for gloves as compared to what happened at the beginning of the pandemic. Nonetheless, ASPs is expected to stabilise at a higher level than the pre-pandemic level due to the broader usage of gloves. Moreover, capacity expansion from glove companies will be able to cope with the future demand. It maintained its "neutral" view on the sector, as it deemed valuations for glove companies under its coverage, namely Top Glove Corp Bhd, Kossan Rubber Industries Bhd and Hartalega Holdings Bhd, were already fully reflected in the companies' earnings outlook. The ASPs will begin to ease after the first half of 2021, following the strong increase over the past nine months and are already priced in. Moreover, the research house is cutting the target price-earnings ratio by 10% across the board to take into account the risk of a down cycle in the sector as a result of successful rollouts of Covid-19 vaccines. While glove makers' fundamentals were expected to remain steady for the next few years, these stocks offered limited upside at their current share prices. Hence, it advised investors to accumulate at lower levels. Maintaining its "hold" recommendation on all the three glove stocks under its coverage, it ascribed a fair value of RM6.50 for Top Glove, RM12.25 for Hartalega and RM4.80 for Kossan. Meanwhile, it noted that rubber prices had been increasing over the past 12 months as protective glove demand surged due to Covid-19. At the same time, the price of butadiene, which is the key ingredient to produce nitrile, had also been on the rising trend over the past six months. Nonetheless, glove makers will be able to pass on the price increase to buyers, thus keeping their margins safe. On glove demand, it cited the Malaysian Rubber Glove Manufacturers Association, which expected the trend to remain positive post-Covid-19. The main reason is the pandemic has raised much awareness on personal hygiene, thus resulting in a higher usage of gloves. In developing countries, the usage of gloves is increasing with a wider adoption of usage from non-medical industries such as food and beverage (F&B), services and retail. Beyond the pandemic, it anticipates a structural change in the way gloves are used, forming a new normal where glove usage per capita will rise as hygiene measures become stricter. This is expected to apply not only in the healthcare sector but also across different industries like F&B.

5 Companies with Shareholder Return above 100% for the Past 3 Years

Shareholder Return is the total amount of capital gains and dividend received from investing in a certain stock.

A capital appreciation is the change in market price of the stock from the time it was purchased to the date it was sold.

Dividend received is the dividend income paid out by the company from its earnings while the investor still owns the stock.

In this article, we will be looking at 5 SGX listed companies that has achieved a return of more than 100% for the past 3 years.

1 Rex International Holdings Limited (SGX: 5WH)

With the recent recovery in oil prices, Rex has registered a 6.99% return for a period of 3 months. However, in the medium term, the company suffered a negative return of 11.56% and 19.47% for a period of 6 months and 1 year respectively.

In the long horizon, Rex registered a shareholder return of 109.59% and 142.86% in a period of 2 years and 3 years. This can be seen from the positivity from the go-ahead of the development of the oil field in Oman and Norway.

Rex's share price is last traded at S$0.153, with a market capitalisation of S$199.25 million.

2 Riverstone Holdings Limited (SGX: AP4)

With the various positive news on COVID-19 vaccine, Riverstone's share price suffered a negative return of 25.40% in the 3-month period as investors are worried that the demand and selling price of gloves will not be sustainable.

However, over the longer term, we can see that Riverstone has achieved a 3 Year return of 180.94%, with significant increase in capital appreciation and a growing dividend payout.

Riverstone's share price last traded at S$1.41, with a market capitalisation of S$2.08 billion.

3 Medtecs International Corporation Limited (SGX: 546)

Like Riverstone, Medtecs' share price has suffered a negative return of 23.94% for the past 3 months due to the positive news about the COVID-19 vaccines.

However, also due to the pandemic, Medtecs has seen its revenue and profit rising sharply due to the huge demand for Personal Protection Equipment. Its 1 Year return amounts to 1960.38% and the longer period of 3 Year amounts to a return of 2175.00%.

Medtecs's share price last traded at S$1.08, with a market capitalisation of S$593.36 million.

4 VICOM Limited (SGX: WJP)

Across the period of 3 years, VICOM's total shareholder return amounts to 127.78%. Majority of these returns were generated through the payout of dividend to shareholders. As VICOM's business model is cash generative by nature, the company can afford a high dividend payout while sustaining the normal business operations.

VICOM's share price last traded at S$2.19, with a market capitalisation of S$776.50 million.
